"Backyard Pond Maker"

By Sandy Saad

Garden club president, Mark Luther, was very prepared to show with pride the pond he constructed in his yard. Using our new club screen, which he did the research to purchase, Mark came equipped with photos and visual layouts for the screen so we could appreciate more fully what it REALLY takes to install a pond in your own backyard.

Mark started by showing us some ponds he had seen which inspired him to have his own. There are many important questions to ask yourself before you start digging a hole in your backyard. Such as, why do you want a water feature? Are you willing to do the necessary research? Do you have the finances and a realistic budget to work with? The physical aspect...are you able to do the labor (digging, hauling boulders and installing pumps) or do you need to pay to have it done?

Mark was fortunate in this respect due to the fact he is young and strong, and, he has a sixteen year old son (lots of free grunt labor) and his willing, able and lovely wife, June, to call upon. Oh yes, let's not forget that youngest daughter, Rosemarie. I'm certain that Mark had her hustling too.

The Luther's made this a family project! A project of this magnitude does take a toll on a families time, effort and finances...but, I sensed that it was all worth it from the their point of view.

If you think that you might want to do a water feature—first e-mail Mark to find out all the DO'S and DON'TS. I'm sure he will give you an ear full. 'Cause he's "been there and done that"!!!!

Native Trees and Shrubs

Almost all plants provide shelter or food for wildlife in some way. However, planting native Illinois plants in your backyard habitat will deliver more benefits to you and to wildlife year after year.

Native plants naturally adapt, providing shelter and food to native wildlife more consistently, even during drought or freezing conditions. Planting native flowering species will provide an abundance of nectar, whereas nonnative, novelty counterparts do not.

Native plants are beautiful, hardy, easier to maintain and beneficial to the environment. Once you have established your native habitat, you will save time and money, and you'll reduce air pollution by eliminating or significantly reducing the need for fertilizer, pesticide, water and lawn-maintenance equipment.

American Plum (Prunus americana)

This is a fast-growing, great screening and habitat-developing plant with excellent snow-white spring blooms in April and May. Fall color is maroon-red.

Chinquapin Oak (Quercus muehlenbergii)

This might be the most finely branched of our oaks; acorns never reach the ground. This unique oak is one of the faster growing oaks at two to four feet per year. Bark and structure are very similar to White Oak. The small, very sweet acorn is highly sought after by wildlife.

Wafer Ash (Ptelea trifoliata)

This multi-stem plant grows to 15 feet tall, provides a great screen and smells great in the spring. It will grow in half to full sun and can grow on very tough sites. Flowers, leaves and fruit are aromatic.

Buttonbush (Cephalanthus occidentalis)

Truly magnificent in bloom, this plant has white flowers in late July and early August that bear a striking resemblance to Sputnik. The leaves are an eye-catching glossy green. This shrub will grow in a marsh, swamp or floodplain as well as in good garden soil.

Elderberry (Sambucus canadensis)

This tough, durable plant is also beautiful when flowering in June. It is a great plant for shrub borders that have a half-day sun. The purple-black fruit in August to September is relished by birds and humans alike.

Spicebush (Kubdera benzoin)

This very shade-tolerant shrub has yellow flowers in early April before the plant leafs out and beautiful scarlet-red fruit in the fall. The leaf and stem have a very aromatic lemon fragrance when crushed.

Indigo Bush (Amorpha fruticosa)

Unique purple-blue flower spikes are three to six inches long and spectacular when blooming in June. A shrub of the wetland and flood plains, it also does well in a full-sun garden. Cut it to the ground every three or four years to keep it from getting too leggy.

An excerpt on Beauty from "The Prophet" by Kahlil Gibran

Beauty is not a need but an ecstasy.
 It is not a mouth thirsting nor an empty hand stretched forth,
 But rather a heart enflamed and a soul enchanted.
 It is not the image you would see nor the song you would hear,
 But rather an image you see though you close your eyes and a song you hear though you shut your ears.
 It is not the sap within the furrowed bark, nor a wing attached to a claw,
 But rather a garden for ever in bloom and a flock of angels for ever in flight.

People of Orphalese, beauty is life when life unveils her holy face.
 But you are life and you are the veil. Beauty is eternity gazing at itself in a mirror.
 But you are eternity and you are the mirror.
